HUNTER STATEMENT ON CNOOC'S ATTEMPTED PURCHASE OF UNOCAL

Today's Hearing Examined the National Security Implications of the Bid by the Chinese Government-controlled China National Offshore Oil Corporation (CNOOC) for the U.S.-based Unocal Corporation

Washington, D.C. – House Armed Services Committee Chairman Duncan Hunter (R-CA) made the following statement today:

“Energy is a strategic commodity. The infrastructure, drilling rights, and exploration capabilities Unocal uses to provide energy on the open market all represent strategic assets that affect U.S. national security.

“Unocal is the ninth-largest U.S. crude oil and natural gas company and a significant provider of natural gas in Southeast Asia. It is also a primary investor in pipelines running from Central Asian oil fields through Azerbaijan, Georgia, and Turkey, all critical players and key U.S. allies in the global war on terrorism. China's purchase of Unocal would dramatically increase its leverage over these countries, and therefore its leverage over U.S. interests in those regions.

“Chinese enterprises do not behave as normal commercial companies on the international market. Because they are state-owned and state-financed entities, they do not follow the normal rules of the market. Instead, they obey the political directions of China's communist government.

“The Chairman of the Chinese company, Fu Chengyu, also happens to be Secretary of the Leading Group of the Communist Party. CNOOC is seventy-one percent owned by the communist Chinese government. Can anyone honestly believe that Fu Chengyu's primary interest lies in protecting the interest of his shareholders and the stability of global energy markets? Of course not. He answers to the Politburo in Beijing.

Hunter Statement on CNOOC Bid for Unocal

“Two weeks ago, the House passed Resolution 344 by a vote of 398 to 15. The resolution noted the strategic importance of energy, China’s ongoing efforts to lock up global energy resources, and the impact of those efforts on U.S. gasoline prices. It further called upon the President to conduct a thorough review of the deal.

“In response, the Chinese Foreign Ministry issued a statement which read: ‘We demand that the U.S. Congress correct its mistaken ways of politicizing economic and trade issues and stop interfering in the normal commercial exchanges between enterprises of the two countries.’ With all due respect to the Chinese foreign ministry, it’s not a normal commercial exchange when one of the parties to a deal is owned and operated by a totalitarian communist government that does not answer to the rules of the market. In fact, not a single member of this committee made a mistake, no matter which way they voted. Even when we disagree with one another, we answer to the American people, not the demands of the Chinese foreign ministry.

“At this point, China’s bid may become moot. Unocal’s stockholders will decide on August 10th whether they want to accept a bid from Chevron. That’s the kind of normal business transaction that we should be reluctant to involve ourselves in—but the Chinese Foreign Ministry is wrong to think we don’t have a voice in the efforts of its government to lock up strategic natural resources. We have a responsibility to look at those issues and a duty to look out for the American people when it comes time to make decisions. We will continue to conduct oversight regarding China’s strategic build-up and its implications for our national security.”
